

LONDON THREATENED WITH FOOD FAMINE

WITH TONS OF PROVISIONS ROTTING AT WHARVES, THERE IS SERIOUS PROVISION SHORTAGE.

CONDITION ALARMING

Carmen Are Added To List of Strikers Today With Serious Tie-Up of Traffic.—Riots Are Frequent On the Docks.

London, Aug. 10.—Today the temper of the strikers appeared ugly and signs of violence increased. The neighborhood of the docks is practically under mob rule.

Food Supplies dwindle. The result was that there was such a dwindling in food supplies that the metropolis experienced something akin to what might happen if a hostile foreign force should succeed in interrupting England's trade routes.

Prices Have Advanced. Prices have soared 100 per cent. The stock market slumped today. Owing to the shortage of means, provision prices are advancing alarmingly.

Clashes in the east end were frequent, the police were unable to deal with the situation, and calling out troops seems inevitable.

Carmen Are Added. Serious clashes between troops and strikers continued all day. While the striking fish porters today were granted all their demands, the difficulty was further complicated by the strike of hundreds of railroad carmen.

Provisions Rotting. Thousands of tons of fruit, vegetables and provisions are rotting on the wharves and railway depots and unless they can be moved soon not only famine conditions, but the general health of the city is threatened.

120,000 Is Total. With 120,000 meat-catchers, freight handlers, railroad workers, and teamsters on a strike today, all affiliated unions are walking out.

Troops At Liverpool. Liverpool, Aug. 10.—A detachment of troops arrived here today to assist the police, who were unable to control the rioting strikers. A fusillade of stones and bricks met the soldiers, but they finally enabled the police through a succession of baton charges, to effect a clearance for provisions and other goods, at the central railway station.

Partially Adjusted. At 3:30 the trouble with the coal porters was settled and the demands of the lightermen and carmen remain to be adjusted.

Troops Needed. The government this afternoon ordered the entire division of the British army to London from Aldershot to suppress the rioters. Bloodshed is feared. The situation was beyond control of the local authorities this afternoon.

MAN IS FOUND DEAD; FOUL PLAY FEARED

Young Milwaukee Man Thought To Have Been Murdered on Way To Bank With Large Sum.

Milwaukee, Aug. 10.—After saving $500 by extreme fasting living Michael Kuntz, aged 24, left his home here Tuesday morning to deposit the money in a bank. When he failed to return home, after two days, his wife reported the case to the police. She fears foul play.

PETITIONS SENT TO SECURE RIGID PROBE

Documents Sent to Federal and State Authorities to Stop Alleged Violations of State Law.

La Crosse, Aug. 10.—Following agitation here for an investigation of the charges that the federal fisheries boat, "Curlew," has been selling bass fry from the Mississippi river in violation of state laws, petitions are today en route to both the state and federal authorities asking that a rigid probe be instituted at once.

Janetstone, R. I., Aug. 10.—Prominent summer residents of Newport, Narragansett Pier and the neighboring resorts turned out in full force for the wedding here today of Miss Margaret Walbridge of Newport, and Charles Carter Buffum of Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed at the summer home of the bride's parents, The Rev. C. J. Burrows of Newport, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Arnold H. Ford of Germantown, Pa.

DENIES ALL CHARGES MAKING FULL ANSWER TO THE COMPLAINTS

Milwaukee's Chief of the Fire Department Files His Answer Today.

Milwaukee, Aug. 10.—A general denial of serious charges, involving graft, incompetency, prosecution of members of the fire department because of personal enmity, and other things, filed with the police and fire commission by Edward E. Weber, a discharged fireman, against Chief Thomas Clancy, was filed with the commission today by attorney W. H. Hendon, Clancy's counsel. The commission suspended the chief from office last Saturday. The answer also asserted that the commission has no authority to institute an investigation of the charges against the chief in as much as he had been previously tried on similar charges and acquitted. The commission set the date of August 21 for hearing of charges against the suspended chief.

Important Auto Wants

Now is a good time to make a deal for an automobile. With the motorizing season at its height, the advance 1912 models coming from the market and nearly everybody taking an interest in motorizing, there is a greatly increased demand for automobiles, which is resulting in many trades and purchases.

Automobile owners and automobile dealers have found it to their advantage to be represented in the Wants from time to time, and thus keep in touch with those who have cars that they are desirous of trading or selling.

The automobile wants contain many opportunities that are worth consideration by those who are desirous of securing cars at special price concessions.

PERKINS DISCUSSES GENERAL SITUATION

TELLS STEEL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE THEY MUST DO SOMETHING FOR CORPORATIONS.

PROMISE TAFT VOTES

Leading Conservatives Flock to White House to Assure Him of Their Support.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—George W. Perkins, a director of the Steel Corporation, before the steel committee today, said he believed with Judge Gary that something of a constructive nature ought to be done with reference to the supervision of great corporations, but he didn't agree with Judge Gary's opinion that there should be government regulation of prices except as a last resort.

Is a Warning. The government's separation of the Standard Oil company into thirty-three parts, Perkins declared, was certainly a warning to all corporations.

Need Aid. He suggested that something be done to relieve present conditions, under which, he contended, corporations couldn't continue to exist.

Perkins branded as false the charge that the panic in 1907 was started to ruin certain banks.

To Stand Pat. The standard republican leaders of the Senate and House flocked to the White House today to inform the President they would fight to the last ditch before they would allow either the Senate or House to pass any measure over the President's veto.

The sub-conference committee in charge of the wool bill failed to reach an agreement today. All the conferees will meet tomorrow to consider the entire tariff situation.

To Veto Measure. The House agreed to minor senate amendments of the statehood bill, which will now go to the President, who, it is stated, will veto it.

Alleged Extravagance. Alleged "extravagance" of the National Monetary commission was arraigned in the senate today by Senator Cummins, who charged that the "commission had become a place for men who lost favor with their constituents and had been defeated at the polls."

Farmers' Bill. Washington, Aug. 10.—An agreement on the farmer's free list bill by the sub-committee in conference was reached by Senator La Follette and Representative Underwood today. It is understood the agreement includes the removal of lemons from the free list.

Back to Calendar. Senator Smith, republican of Utah, asking for the Senate Finance committee today submitted to the senate the democratic cotton tariff revision bill with his adverse report by the committee. The bill was relegated to the calendar.

HAZELWOOD SPEAKS TO COUNTY BOARD ON NEW ROAD LAW

Chairman of State Highway Commission Advocates Educational Campaign for Road Improvement to Rock County Board.

Chairman John A. Hazelwood of the state highway commission, ex-senator from Jefferson county, told of the workings of the law recently enacted by the Wisconsin legislature in regard to state aid for highways, and advocated a campaign of education for perfecting the system, before the members of the County Board of Supervisors.

ONE OF THE SPOTS THAT WILL BE REMEDIED BY THE NOTICES.

visors at the court house this afternoon.

Mr. Hazelwood dwelt on the more practical points of the law and indicated how it might be used most effectively in securing road roads in Rock county and in other parts of the state. He explained, especially, the method of obtaining the state aid under the new law for 1912.

Precedent for State Aid.

"There has been a precedent for the state aid system," said the speaker, "in the state aid for education. The schools of the state were built up to their present efficiency by means of this state aid, and there is no one in Wisconsin who would favor the abolishing of this plan. It is now planned to increase the educational value of agricultural lands throughout the state by the means of state aid.

"There is no reason why state aid for highways should not be just as successful. It is as important as the educational aid, and comes directly after it. All the nations of Europe have advanced as powerful nations only as they have adopted a system of improved county highways.

Plan of Instruction.

"Soon after the appointment of the present state highway commission by Governor McGovern, we held a meeting and organized and determined to begin a campaign of education in the matter of state highway improvement. There was but a short time left for securing state aid by the various towns in the state for 1912, and our efforts were increased on that account. We realized that there were defects in the present law but they may be remedied at a future time."

Chairman Hazelwood told of sending out instructions to the town clerks throughout the state, regarding the operations of the new law. Under its provisions, it was pointed out, that the initiative in the matter of improving the highways lay with the people in the unit of the township, or smaller still, in an interested group of freeholders.

Plans of Working.

Chairman Hazelwood indicated just how the law would work out. The town board at its spring meeting would appropriate its highway money which will be equalled by the county and if possible by the state also, the limit to the amount appropriated being placed on the property valuation. He suggested that the greatest amount of work in the best manner might be secured if the work was confined to, perhaps, one third of the county for one year, thus obviating difficulties of moving equipment and supervision by the county road commissioner.

The method by which the freeholder of a township might secure state aid was explained. Ten farmers might give $25 each, which must be equalled by the town. Then the county and state will each give $500, giving a total of $1,500 to be placed on the roads designated by these freeholders. In other cases the town board indicates the place where the improvement shall be made.

Special Town Meeting.

"Tomorrow is the last day for the filing of a notice for a special town meeting to secure appropriations under the present law. The meeting must then be held before the 31st, and a report sent to the county clerk and highway commission, in order to receive state money in 1912.

Another feature of the present law which was pointed out to be of especial value to the towns, is that the money given by the county and state is available as soon as work begins on the highway, and not until after everything is completed.

At the conclusion of the address a number of practical questions were answered as to the various phases of the measure.

Why is a Wilderness?

"The reason there's a wilderness at all," says a Georgia philosopher, "is because the lazy clump get out of it in a hurry, being afraid that they might be put to sawing wood. You even can't induce a candidate to chop wood when he has to take to the woods."—Atlanta Constitution.

Not a Waste of Time.

whom the notices are served to comply with the orders and a record has been made of those who will receive the notices. At the end of the ten day period, a check will be made to see who have not complied with the order and in case of failure to do so, no further notice will be given but prosecution against them will be instituted. City Attorney H. L. Maxfield stated today.

The mayor, city attorney and health officer recently made a trip of inspection and the names were taken of those who were violating the city ordinance, Nos. 71, 76 and 77, prohibiting dumping refuse into the river.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD PICNIC AT YOST'S

Janesville and Beloit Lodges of I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs Hold Joint Outing at Park Today.

Members of the Janesville and Beloit Lodges of Odd Fellows and the Daughters of Rebekahs held a joint picnic at Yost's park today and it is estimated that over five hundred persons were present at the park for the day's fun. Cars on the interurban from this city this morning carried an extra trailer for the accommodation of the local lodge members and a large number from this city went to the park at various hours during the day. An unusually fine program of sports was carried out, prizes being awarded for each of the events. One of the features of the day's outing was a baseball game between two picked teams from Janesville and Beloit. A dance will be held this evening at the park.

FORCE IS INCREASED FOR THE FALL RUSH

Signs of Activity For Fall Business Are Noted At South Janesville, Where New Hands Are Added.

South Janesville shops are beginning to show signs of the fall rush. The force is being increased gradually and it is expected that more new employees will be added soon.

Part of this increased work is due to the opening of the gravel pit north of the city. The greater part, however, is brought about by the regular increase in fall shipments of stock and grain which cause an increasing demand for the use of engines and cars.

Some of the old hands have been transferred to the work at the pit and their places have been filled by enlisting new men.

Seven new hands were added to the force this morning; they are: G. W. Higgins, holtermaker, P. H. Knox, machinist, Arthur Hauck, cooper, Smith, Albert Carlson, machinist, H. H. Walker, machinist, Harry Lovejoy and Louis Hogue.

Daniel Sullivan, who has been employed as machinist helper days, has been transferred to the night service and will be on duty as engine inspector.

Charles Hoague, holtermaker's helper is off duty today.

Machinist Thomas F. Lawson went to Harvard yesterday afternoon on business for the company.

The advertising coach for the 101 Ranch circus passed through the city this morning on train 27.

Machinist J. M. Smith was off duty yesterday.

Flagman Arthur Connors was off duty yesterday and attended the big picnic at Edgerton.

The new bulletin just issued has made the following assignments: Fireman, Townsend goes on runs 521 and 511; Fireman Daves on 582 and 580; Lewis gets the "sanitary limited" and Wilson is assigned to duty on way freight 558 and 555.

Engineer Cole takes the place of Wilson on the down town dispatching job.

Night yardmaster Groban has resumed work at his old job.

Switchman Goodman is off duty today and is relieved by Terry at the belt line switch.

Engineer Gestland is off duty and Sturitt is taking his place.

Switchman Schunacher is laying off today.

Flagman John Dohs was off duty yesterday, attending the funeral of his little grandson.

Engine 1143 was brought here to be used as an extra in hauling gravel to the new line at Clyman.

Uncle Davey and William Marech were both off duty last night.

Engines 1143 and 62 were turned over from the Wisconsin to the Madison division yesterday, and engine 155 was turned over to the Northern Wisconsin.

Engineer Hager of the Northern Wisconsin was off duty yesterday and attended the T. A. & B. picnic at Edgerton.

Switchman McFargett took in the picnic at Edgerton yesterday.

TWO TRAINS DELAYED BY SLIGHT BREAK DOWNS

Employees of the company as well as passengers are beginning to think that there must be some Jonah every day on the train which is due here from Chicago at 10:35. Yesterday engine 201 which was pulling the train blew out a cylinder head near Bradford, causing the train to be a half hour late. Today the engine, which was put on in the place of that which regularly made the run pulled out a draw bar near Horton tower and as a result the train was about thirty-five minutes late.

The passenger train which is scheduled to leave for Chicago at about 10:30 was delayed in starting on account of some defect in the air brake apparatus on the tender. With the brakes set on the wheels of the tender alone the train and the crew were puzzled for about ten minutes searching for and repairing the defective apparatus.

Engineer E. B. Daves reported for work this morning on the R. and S. W. division.

Engineer William Gilbert, who has been enjoying a vacation during the past two weeks reported for duty on the Beloit switch engine.

Engineer Enah, who was taking the place of Gilbert, while that latter was on his vacation, is taking the R. & S. W. passenger run to relieve Engineer Bush.

Engineer Clark and Fireman Maloney with engine 87 took a work train out on the R. & S. W. this morning.

Engineer Mead and Fireman Griffin took engine 873 to Brodhead this morning and will return with engine 775, which will be placed in the shop for minor repairs.

Malplaced Reliance.

"It was a great mistake," sighed the man who was sued for breach of promise, "What do you mean?" "I used a non de plume in my literary work instead of disguising my identity in my love letters."

WAYWARD GIRLS AND WENCHES ARE SENT OUT OF CITY TODAY

White Girls and Negro Women Lodged in Women's Department at Police Station Through the Night.

Two young girls about twenty years old, who gave their names as Gladys Evans and Fay Hamilton, who were chased out of Beloit yesterday and came here, were given passage to Rockford this morning and left on the eleven o'clock car. The pair were lodged overnight in the women's cell at the city lockup, and were given breakfast in the station by the officers this morning.

Officer Elm Dorn found the two young women asleep in the court house park last night about ten o'clock while making his nightly rounds and driving out the idlers there. The girls said they had no money to secure a room at a hotel. Both were well-dressed but seemed to be quite worldly-wise. They have been working with a crew of young women who were demonstrating table salt in this city. When the demonstrators went to Beloit the pair separated from their companions and sought the company of a number of the sporty youths of the Blue City. The attention of a Beloit officer was drawn to their operations and the young ladies were requested to go elsewhere, coming here on the car arriving at six o'clock.

The Evans girl said her home was in Dubuque, Ia., and Fay Hamilton gave her home as Madison.

Blackbirds in Cell.

Sleeping accommodations in the women's quarters at the police station were crowded on account of the presence of the two young demonstrators in the cell and when two colored women, who were arrested about midnight last night were brought in, they had to sleep in chairs in the women's department. The two were two well-dressed young maidens, who were taken from a room over the Badger Drug company on Milwaukee street, occupied by a negro porter. Officer Ed. Hullen had been watching the two during the evening, becoming suspicious of them when he saw them coming from a saloon on South River street. Later he saw the two women with their friend, the porter, enter the salway and he and John Brown went to the room on the third floor where they found the women, partially disrobed, in the room with the porter. They claimed they had been unable to secure sleeping accommodations and the colored man had offered the use of his room. Their home, they said, was in Chicago. Both ate said to come from respectable negro families. The two were put on a train this morning and sent out of town.

Uncle Ezra Says:

"When I see some women folks goin' 'long the street I wonder how sech little heels kin hol' up so much dignity."

The Red River Valley

Has the Richest Land in the World

The soil is a rich black loam with a clay subsoil. No stumps. No Swamp land. No drouths. Good Homes. Near Good Markets. At reasonable prices.

The Red River Valley has been known for years as the great wheat producing area of the world, and the wheat fields have paid the farmers millions of dollars in the past. The soil is still able to produce this cereal, and there is no doubt, but that the returns from the wheat fields, will amount this year, to a sum larger than has ever been received from the same source any year in the past.

Other grains including Oats, Barley, Flax and Rye, have also been produced with uniform success, and each year hundreds of thousands of dollars are paid to the farmers for their cereal crops.

Native and tame grasses grow in luxuriant richness. The value of the hay crop is enormous and forms a source of revenue that is important.

Timothy and clover are being sown each year in enlarged acreage and are being grown most successfully. The clover crop is especially fine and at the present time the finest fields that can be found in the world will be seen in Polk County, Minn.

I have several fine farms in this County for sale and will be pleased to tell you about them.

Come in and see me, and if, after you have investigated my offerings, you find that everything is not just as I represent it to you, I will refund your railroad fare both ways. Can anything be fairer? Think on this matter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES OPINION ON ABANDONMENT LAW

Attorney General Bancroft Answers Inquiry of District Attorney Dunwiddie Regarding New Statute.

In answer to a request from District Attorney Stanley C. Dunwiddie concerning the interpretation of the new statute passed with regard to the abandonment of wife and children, Attorney General Bancroft of Madison, has held that in a case of this sort it is necessary, under the new law, to prove that the wife is in a destitute condition.
Many complaints of cases where the husband has left his wife and family are received by the district attorney from all parts of the county, the woman in some cases being able to support herself. Under the new statute, as interpreted by the attorney general, the crime is cut down so that in case the woman is able to support herself, the man may not be convicted of abandonment. In order to secure a conviction it must be proven that the wife of the defendant has secured aid from the county or charitable institutions.
In the old statute, two crimes were included in one section of the law, the first being wilful abandonment of the wife or minor children, leaving them in a destitute condition and second the unreasonable refusal or neglect to provide for them, the defendant in any action of this kind being able to support them. Under the latter clause of the old statute, action could be brought against a man for abandonment even though the woman was able to support herself after he left her. The new law changes the wording so as to read "any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to provide for his wife or minor children in destitute or necessitous circumstances." Other minor changes are made, among which is that the defendant in such an action may plead guilty or be convicted by the court and instead of sentencing the man to a term in state's prison, the court may order him to pay a certain sum regularly for the support of the deserted wife or children. If the defendant fails to comply with the court's order the trial judge may sentence the man to prison at any time within two years after the action was started.

TRAINING SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEETS; INSPECT QUARTERS

Met at Jefferson School Today With Members of Janesville Building Committee to Accept New Quarters.

Members of the Rock County training school committee and members of the committee on buildings of the Janesville school board, met at the Jefferson school building this morning, for the purpose of looking over the work of the contractors, Van Pool brothers, who have had the work of remodeling the quarters of the training school.

Work Satisfactory.
The entire work in most respects was found to be satisfactory and although no final acceptance was made at the meeting today, action will undoubtedly be taken in the near future. Those at the meeting were, for the training school: Chas. L. Moore, Earl A. Cleveland, Supt. D. L. Antkowiak, and Principal E. J. Lowth, and for the building board: F. C. Grant, Samuel Smith, and James Shearer, and S. C. Durham, clerk.

The cost of remodeling the building will be in the neighborhood of $1,500, of which something over $1,000 will be paid out of the Janesville school funds, according to the agreement previously made with the county board.

Will Install Equipment.
It is expected that the new seats, desks and other equipment ordered some days ago, will be here next week, and they will be installed at that time. Work has been received that the plans was shipped on Friday last and will be here today or tomorrow. Everything will be placed in readiness for the fall session of the training school next week, and some of the plans for the same were talked over at the meeting this morning. The fall session opens August 28th, two weeks from Monday.

Summer Session Closes.
Tomorrow is the last day of the summer session of the training school which began six weeks ago. The school has been most successful and the results have been very satisfactory to Supt. Antkowiak and Principal Lowth. Between forty-five and sixty-five students have been in attendance. Examinations will be held tomorrow and Saturday.

REFUSED TO ALLOW DRUNK ON A TRAIN

James Hampton of Clinton, Refused Passage on Train and Turned Over To Police By Conductor.

The first illustration of the operation of the new state law with regard to preventing drunks from riding on trains was given here last night, when James Hampton of Clinton, who attempted to secure passage to his home on a Northwestern train, was not allowed to take the train and was turned over to the police by the conductor. The state is quite severe in this regard in case the conductor fails to do his duty, a fine of $25 being the penalty in case of conviction. Hampton was arraigned in municipal court this morning and a fine of $3 and costs or $1 if within the alternative of seven days in jail was fixed by the court. Hampton made arrangements to pay the fine.

Charles Roeder, who made his appearance in court today for the first time, was given a fine of $2 and costs, lacking which he went to jail for four days. A similar penalty was fixed against Pat Lynch and he too is spending four days at the county house. Gilbert Olson was fined three dollars and costs, but in default of payment went to jail for seven days.

GIVE TROPHIES FOR MOTORCYCLE RACES

DECISIONS ON RATE CASES SEPTEMBER 1

State Rate Commission Announced Today It Would Report On Water and Gas Cases Not Later Than First of Next Month.

Decisions on the cases of the City of Janesville against the Janesville Water Company and the New Gas Light Company, now before the state railroad rate commission are expected not later than September 1, according to the statement made by City Attorney H. L. Maxfield today. The city attorney was in telephonic communication today with the rate commission's office in Madison today, and it was stated that a decision on both cases could not be given earlier. Some of the engineers who worked in preparing the report of the valuation of the two local plants are at present on their vacations and it will be impossible for the commission to formulate a report until they return.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

MONOLOGUES of a Shampoo Lady.

(My shampoo lady is a first-class philosopher as she is a shampooer—and that means much. Almost every time she comes to give me a massage or a shampoo, she also gives me some new view-point on life. This was yesterday's.)

No. 1.

"Do I ever get blue, Miss Ruth? Mercy, No; I don't have time to. No one would if they had four or five heads and two or three faces and a body or two, to do in a day."

"Besides, Miss Ruth (just hold your head a little farther over the bowl, please), besides, how could I when I have such an interesting life. You know my sister is a school teacher and she thinks it's terrible for me to do this work, and she's always saying, 'I should think, Anne, that you, with your family, and your bringing up would want to do some more stimulating work than just washing people's heads. Really, I can't understand how you can endure such an uninteresting life.'"

"You know I never had a chance to study when I was young, Miss Ruth, because I had to take care of my invalid mother until I was over thirty, so I couldn't very well be a teacher (that isn't too hot is it?) and she thinks it's a disgrace for me to make money as a shampooer instead of starving over clerical work in an office."

"But for a more stimulating life—well let me tell you, Miss Ruth, last night a neighbor of mine asked me if I had read one of those novels and I said, 'Goodness, if I had read one to read but one book.'"

"What's that," she said, "The Bible?"

"And I said, 'No, I didn't mean that although I do manage to read that pretty regularly too. But the book I mean is 'People.'"

"Yes, people are my book. The people I visit, I mean (would you rather I named it or should I). Some like one and some another and I'd forgotten which you liked. Why, they're just like a book of Dickens you know with a lot of little plots in it. Every house I visit is a chapter. There's Mrs. Marvin, you know with her five big boys. She always has something to tell me about what they're doing. And then there's Mrs. Whittemore, that little nineteen-year-old mother, its great fun hearing all about her experiences with that baby. And then there's Mrs. Simmons, the charity worker, I just love to go there, and hear about what she's doing. And then when I go to the Alfred Pater's, I get a chapter on high life (you tell me if I pull too hard. Your hair certainly does get terribly snarly. I suppose because it's curly.)"

"People seem to get real confidential somehow when they're being worked over. Why one lady—I guess it's all right to tell you if I don't say who it is. You don't know her from Adam, anyway—told me how she found out that her husband was deceiving her and how she went to a lawyer about a divorce and the lawyer turned out to be an old lover of hers who hadn't ever married—and well it seems as if I couldn't wait for the next treatment to read some more in that chapter and find out what she's doing."

"There, Miss Ruth, you let that hang loose for a few minutes to air before you do it up."

"Well, well I should think not. And talk about stimulating lives, I don't see how anyone could have a more interesting and stimulating life than mine. Just think I'm going over to Mrs. Whittemore's now and I'll see that dear little baby again and find out what that child has been doing with her new playthings. Goodbye, Miss Ruth, three weeks from today."

And the shampoo-philosopher, having gathered up her washes and implements, departed, a radiant smile on her fine plain face and the secret of happiness in her beautiful heart.

The Candid Girl

Tells Some of the Desirable Qualities in a Neighbor.

JUST because a person lives next door to you," said the Candid Girl, as she lounged in the hammock, "gives her no more rights or privileges in regard to you than if she lived across the ocean. But some people think that being a neighbor immediately confers upon them the relationship of a near-friend."

"You should study the fine art of encouraging and discouraging neighbors," said Grandmama.

"The right kind doesn't need encouraging, and the wrong kind can't be discouraged," said the Candid Girl, gloomily.

"There are desirable neighbors," said Grandmama.

"Oh, yes," said the Candid Girl, brightening. "Plenty of them. They are the kind who never give your children cake and candy and pie between meals. You don't need to say as politely as you can, under the circumstances, that you don't care to have your children eat between meals, and they are never the kind who reply airily when you tell them this, 'Oh, a little snack, now and then, won't hurt them.' If you have desirable neighbors it isn't necessary to take the children privately and forbid them to accept anything to eat, which wouldn't do any good, for the kid who wouldn't take pie or cake when it was offered to him, I would fear was headed straight for heaven."

"Nor is the desirable neighbor the kind who makes excuses for the children when you punish them, and tells you that children will get into mischief, and says a whole lot of silly things to the children themselves, until they look at you reproachfully and wish she was their mother."

"Nor is the desirable neighbor the kind who nabs you the minute you appear in the back yard or on the front porch, and talks for an hour at a stretch. Oh, the hours you waste over the neighbor who talks!" groaned the Candid Girl.

"You get all quivery inside thinking of all the work you have to do, and how the time is going, and you say, 'I must go,' and she, 'Yes,' and without taking a breath goes right on with what she is telling you. That's being on the rack."

The Candid Girl fanned herself a while to cool off.

"What the desirable neighbor doesn't ask you leading questions, such as, 'Was that your brother who came in the motor yesterday afternoon? I think he looks so much like you?'" The Candid Girl laughed. "Jimmy Blake, you know, looks no more like me than the moon looks like green cheese."

Grandmama's eyes twinkled. "Oh," she said, "you are speaking from experience."

The Candid Girl flushed slightly. "I was just talking about neighbors in general," she replied.

"Then, the desirable neighbor never borrows. When you strike a neighbor who borrows, it's cheaper to move."

"The desirable neighbor," said the Candid Girl, slowly, "is the one who never gossip, never prides into your affairs, who leaves your children alone, and doesn't keep tab on what time your husband comes home at night, and who doesn't use the accident of being your neighbor to press her acquaintance upon you."

"But neighborliness," said Grandmama, "is a great, easy cloak for doing all these things; and down inside of us we are all so fond of doing these things that we slip the cloak on the very first chance we get, and then sail in and do them. Human nature is human nature, and it comes out strong in being a neighbor."

TALK TO HOUSE-KEEPER

(By Nellie L. Horn.)

"Hunger and thirst at once powerful personifiers, quickened at the scent of that alluring fruit, mused me so keen."

—Milton, Paradise Lost.

"Though the peach crop is annually reported to be a failure, the markets each year show a greater or less quantity of this luscious fruit and the hunger has come to be classed with the 'noblest' of the sea serpent."

One of the simplest desserts is baked peaches. They have a delicious richness that far surpasses peach sauce. Four boiling water over peaches until the skin will slip off easily. Place a layer of them in a pan, sprinkle them liberally with sugar, and pour about half an inch of water peach pulp, and add this to the mixture. Set aside, stirring occasionally until the mixture is thick. Whip the whites of four eggs to a dry froth, add the jelly by degrees, and continue to beat until the whole mass is stiff. Pour into a mould wet in cold water, and set on ice or in a cold place until firm enough to turn out. Serve with whipped cream and garnish with slices of peaches dipped in sugar.

Mock Peached Eggs on Toast sounds out of place in an article of this sort, but if you are fond of "surprise dishes" this is one after your own heart, for it is really a dessert, not a breakfast dish. Bake a sponge cake in a Tark's head pan so that each slice will have the golden outer edge on all sides, and look like toast. Lay half a peach, carefully pared, on side down on a thin slice of cake. Around the peach, which resembles the yolk of the egg, place whipped cream, sweetened and flavored, so as to cover all of the cake but the outer edge—the cream representing the white of the egg.

An old-time Peach Pudding, whose popularity will never wane as long as people appreciate good things, is made in the following way. Fill a pudding dish with whole, pared peaches, pour over them two cups of water, cover closely and bake until tender. Then drain off the juice and let it cool. When cool, add two cups of sweet milk, four well beaten eggs, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of melted butter, and one cup of flour sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat the batter well, and pour it over the peaches in the pudding dish. Bake a rich brown and serve with cream.

MEASURE success by accumulation. The measure is false. The true measure is accumulation. He who loves most has most.

HELPFUL HINTS.

When grease is spilled on the kitchen floor or table pour cold water over it at once. This hardens the grease before it can sink in, and much of it can be scraped off.

Try ground caraway seed in cakes and cookies. It is much better liked than the whole seed.

Add a teaspoonful of turpentine to the water in the boiler when boiling clothes. It will whiten them.

When cutting fresh bread, dip the knife in hot water.

When cutting fresh cake, use a fork for cutting. This is well to remember when cutting hot ginger cake.

Put a little sand in the tail vases to keep them from tipping over.

Scraped raw potato applied to a burn will give quick relief.

Soak new brooms in strong salt water before using. This toughens them and they wear better.

Celery eaten freely is good to cure neuralgia.

When buying carpets for durability, choose those with small figures.

A brighter window will result if no soap, but a few drops of kerosene, is used in the water.

Turn-up bits of newspaper and soap rinds will clean the water bottle beautifully.

Never use soap and water on varnished surfaces.

Keep an apple in the cake box and the cake will keep fresh much longer.

A piece of camphor kept with the silver will keep it from tarnishing.

A little salt in the water will keep flowers much longer.

A cure for hiccoughs is to take a long breath and hold it as long as possible.

A few drops of oil of lavender will sweeten the air in a room and a little sprinkled in the book cases before they are shut up for the summer will keep the books from molding.

Never bite thread with the teeth. It injures the enamel.

Boiled flaxseed and lemon juice is excellent for a cough.

A little butter added to cake frosting improves it.

Never put any acid fruits into tinware.

Fads and Fashions

New York, Aug. 10.—In Paris as well as in New York chiffon and voile are among the most popular materials for summer frocks and blouses. Voile is an extremely practical material. It does not crumple easily, is light of weight, comes in all colors and has a pleasing transparency that is not too breezy. The voile blouse can be made with little trimming; the mesh lends itself to cross-stitching and conventional embroidery. The background is excellent for the incorporation of lace or embroidery bands, while the convenient width of the blouse gives easy cutting of the kimono patterns that seem too good to let go. Collarless tops and short sleeves predominate. In white or in colors these blouses are effective, convenient and easily made.

Course lace is used on these new models, Cluny, Irish and Torsion being most in evidence. Plain color is another trimming much used on voile as pinnings, bindings and dropped collars on bodices and sleeves.

Quite dressy, though often designed and worn for trotting and morning frocks, are the models in which the chiffon does not veil the entire frock, being used merely for a tulle or in combination with silk. Some of the new tulle frocks are made up with chiffon used almost or quite as freely as the silk, the frock being largely of the chiffon, with deep skirt trimming and coat of the tulle.

When one passes into the province of afternoon and evening frocks, the possibilities of chiffon and kindred sheer stuffs widen out infinitely and the marvelous color schemes achieved by superposed layers of such materials have given the models of recent seasons their most beautiful note. One hears much of the passing of this idea, of the relinquishing of heavier materials, but both dressmakers and customers have so heartily appreciated the possibilities and results in this veiling scheme that there seems little danger that women will be called upon in the near future to give up their chiffons.

A light-weight full-length coat has become a necessary adjunct to the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. For the auto-trip, travel on the train or even for a day's shopping, a top-coat that will protect the trim, summer gown is most acceptable. Practically all of the new coats are made full length and are cut on straight lines, which continue in favor. They are made up in pongee, the most popular material for the long coat, soft-finished tulle and rubberized silk that defy the rain.

The principal mode of trimming is the large collar. These are of varied shapes; the newest have the long-pointed effect, simulating a hood and finished off with a tassel. There are also many Charlotte Corday models, but the sailor collar is still the general favorite. Some of the coats show the shortened waist line. Some are cut with the separate skirt and waist, joined a few inches above the waist line, while on others the modified empire effect is obtained by the use of a wide belt or by means of trimming or buttons.

Pleasant sleeves are noticed on many of the models, and usually finished with a deep cuff matching the trimming on the collar. The regulation coat sleeve is, however, much in evidence. These coats are designed for general utility and can be worn on all occasions. Coats of light-weight broadcloth are also used extensively.

Velvet, satin, moire and broad are used for trimming. Great care is evident in the selection of buttons, which usually are very large and harmonize with the coloring of the coat. For example, a pongee coat with carry gilt or light-brown buttons; a red-brown mixture has red buttons; blue buttons, that exactly match the material are used on a light-weight cloth coat.

Golden brown and tan seem to be the favorite colors. These are combined with contrasting colors in the trimmings. Stripes of black and white and white add a novel touch to many of the chic models. Two-inch bands of striped silks are seen edging the plain-colored trimmings, and some coats are lined throughout with narrow striped silk.

Cool, comfortable coats and skirts are being made of the finer, softer weaves of Shantung silk, chosen in the natural bicolor shade and also of soft satins and a favorite fabric called "silk-serge," which closely resembles satin nevertheless. A pretty model is of soft blue satin trimmed in quite a new way, with long silk ribbons chosen in a darker shade of blue. The skirt opens on the left side in panel effect, revealing a long end of ribbon, and caught across with a dull silver button.

Some of the most attractive coat and dress sets, consisting of a sailor collar and large turn-back cuffs, are of white mousseline or plain satin, with no further elaboration than the hem-stitching, by the way, is a favorite feature on French gowns and accessories of almost every kind of fabric and can be used with excellent advantage on neckwear. Where hemstitching cannot be introduced conveniently, set-in narrow heading is used instead.

Several types of neckwear are represented in the latest importations from Paris. Foremost are the sailor collars. These come in embroidered linen and batiste, net and lace, and some of them are made of plain white material having colored borders matching the gowns with which they are to be worn.

The shawl collar of embroidered batiste or fine handkerchief linen finds favor in the eyes of the large woman. These are cut like a V-shape in front, to give a shallow V-shaped neck. Such a collar with scalloped edges is particularly attractive when worn with a dark-colored gown. Folded-back cuffs that match are worn with it. A feature of many of the French sailor collars is the extreme depth in the back. This is a new note and promises to become very popular, especially with tall and stately women, of generous proportions.

First and foremost among the gowns suitable for summer wear come the frocks of cool, lustrated, tulle, when their weight is extremely light, while they are refreshing to the eye even on the hottest days.

Sleeves of summer gown or blouse admit of much trimming. Lace insertion, embroidered or lace motifs, insets of both lace and embroidery, with edging on the cuffs, are all correct, if care is taken to choose suitable trimming and not too much of it is used.

Separate skirts are strictly tailored, and those that do not show the panel effect are either cut perfectly plain, trimmed only with stitching, or have a simulated tulle effect, obtained by the use of bias bands.

Wide lace collars worn on coats and dresses are often bordered with sun-tache, worked in a pattern, which gives weight to the edges.

Hosiery in every case matches the shade of the gown with which it is worn.

On the benches are seen many black silk bathing suits with white Empire revers.

TRIMMINGS AT THE BACK IN HIGH FAVOR.

hat trimming perched at the sides has a jaunty and daring suggestion; trimmings across the front are feminine—often suggesting simplicity and modesty; but trimmings at the back are almost invariably youthful and dashing in effect. Because of this the smart bow directly across the back of the hat returns year after year. This charmingly girlish fall hat of white silk and two white wings poised at either side of the back. The trim facing of royal blue silk makes the hat particularly becoming to a blue-eyed maid.

SOUTHERN WOOD OF COLONIAL ANCESTRY.
Miss Rosalie Lawton Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Wood of Savannah, Ga. As her picture shows she is possessed of the characteristic grace and beauty of the highly bred Southern girl. The ancestors of Miss Wood were without exception, settlers in South Carolina and Georgia during colonial days. She is related to General Lawton of Savannah, in Southern and Washington society she is very popular.

LADIES SPOKE LAST NIGHT IN BEHALF OF WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

Members of the Party in Auto Trip Through Southern Wisconsin, Addressed Audience Last Night.

Before a fair sized crowd in the lower Court House last evening, the ladies who are making an auto tour through southern Wisconsin in the interest of the Wisconsin Political Equality society, spoke on the enfranchisement of women. Miss Mabel Judd of Milwaukee, state organizer of the Political Equality society, addressed the people first.

Suffrage for women, she said, is the greatest political question that faces us today. It affects us all in all the course of life, not only outside, but inside our families as well. Women, said Miss Judd, have never gained anything without a struggle. From time immemorial, they have been bound down by the strings of tradition. We can trace this by referring back to ancient history, and can follow it down to our own day. There was a time in India when the girls were unequal to the boys, were useless, and so were thrown into the river. In China they had their feet bound up and nature's proper development prevented. In all times, the prettiest girls have been sacrificed, and even in our own country we burned women as witches. The school were once closed to girls, and when they were opened, see what happened. The girls flocked to them and today two-thirds of our graduates are girls. And now when the women are asking the ballot, the same old bogey of tradition has kept them out. It is no worse than to get into a crowded street car, or to make one's way through a crowded street. Before we give our vote against suffrage let us see first if we are sure we are right; if we know what we are doing.

Miss Harriet Grimm of Chicago then spoke on suffrage and answered some of the objections to it. The first reason brought forward by Miss Grimm was that women obey the same laws as men. They are bound by the same state and national statutes, which are enacted without their consent or voice, and must obey them. There is also the revolutionary principle at stake of no taxation without representation, and by statistics Miss Grimm showed that women were paying half of this country's taxes which were being squandered without their voice in the matter. The cases of Illinois was cited where there were nearly as many females in the state house as representatives, and fifteen clock-windings for ten eight-day clocks. Miss Grimm's contention was that government should be a partnership of men and women, and that while there are certain problems which belong to the men, so there are problems for the women's minds. She emphasized the fact that where the home side of government now suffers women would know better how to cope with it. In proof of this, she pointed to the law today which made a girl responsible for her moral life at fourteen years, but of her property at eighteen years of age; and also the law which punishes a man by twenty years imprisonment for stealing a horse, but by one year's confinement for stealing a girl. To enforce all her statements, Miss Grimm showed the improvement which had been wrought in the five states where the women have the vote. She also took under consideration the standard of common law relating to guardianship of children and by specific illustrations, showed the evil which could be wrought under it by brutal husbands and fathers.

Miss Grimm's answers to standard objections to suffrage were especially to the point. The old standby that women are not able to fight, she said, should be applied to men as well, and the ballot taken away from all men who could not go to war. This would eliminate men over 45, the age when they are most capable of voting. It would take away the vote, excluding men too fat, too thin, too tall or too short to fill army regulations, from two-thirds of our preachers and lawyers and newspaper men. Voting should be based on intelligence, not on fighting ability. The argument that the women don't vote when given a chance was shown false by the fact that where they have suffrage on an average of 70 per cent vote, a larger percentage than of men. So, Miss Grimm concluded, government should be a partnership of men and women, and the women to more want to take the man's vote away, than the men ought to want to keep it from the women.

At the conclusion of Miss Grimm's talk, Mrs. Guggenheim of Oshkosh, president of the National Consumers' League, and a national authority, showed how, from a purely economic and business standpoint, suffrage in the states, where tried, had proven a distinct benefit, enforcing her statements with straight facts and figures from throughout the whole country.

The crowd throughout the meeting was quite attentive, and much food for serious thought was given to all who are on either side of the suffrage question.

Miss Jennie M. Howard of La Prairie and John W. Miller of Clinton, Took Nuptial Vows.

Miss Jennie Mabel Howard, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howard of the town of La Prairie, and John W. Miller of Clinton, took the marriage vows last evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. T. D. Williams of the Methodist church officiated and used the ring service.

The bride was beautifully attired in white and carried a bouquet of white roses. They were married in the evening, the ceremony and congratulations, the bride party and their guests, of whom there were about a hundred present, enjoyed a delightful wedding banquet, served under the direction of Mrs. Richard Overton of Shopton.

Both the young people are most popular in a large circle of friends who join in wishing them every happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home near Clinton.

Guests from away who were present at the wedding were: Mrs. M. M. Van Gelder of Tomahawk, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seible Berlin, Wis.; Mrs. J. S. Seible, Taylorville, Ill.; Miss Mildred Van Gelder, Racine; Edward Hunter, Heketo, Wis.; Miss Helen Eaton and Starr B. Eaton of Madison.

EAST CENTER.
East Center, Aug. 9.—A large crowd attended the social given by Mr. Herman and Frank Quide at their home in Center, Sunday evening. Supper was served on the lawn, which was composed of ice cream, cake, jelly, and apples. The lawn was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns. After supper games were played. All reported a fine time.

Mrs. E. Utzig and son, Walter, are visiting relatives in Watertown.

Mr. Theodore Schmitz was seen on the Highway road Sunday evening.

Mr. A. Anderson had the misfortune of losing a valuable horse Monday.

William Utzig was a pleasant caller in North Plymouth Sunday evening.

Naz brothers are thrashing in this vicinity.

Miss Verna Hutton is visiting with the Misses Laura, Maudie and Elsie Utzig this week.

The Misses Maudie Utzig and Cora Splitter attended services at the Grove church Sunday.

The Misses Elsie and Mabel Presan and Eva Hemp visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quide Sunday.

The Misses Maudie Utzig and Cora Splitter visited with Miss Ella Buehler Sunday.

There will be no services at the Grove church Sunday.

Ancient Knives of Stone.
Herodotus tells us that the knives used by the Egyptian surgeons were made of stone. The first mention of knives anywhere speaks of them as being of stone, so they must date back to an ancient epoch.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Fishing seems more of a science than Father imagined.

The Taming of Red Butte Western

FRANCIS LYNDY

Copyright, 1911, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"You are an officer of the law, Schelsinger—more is the pity, both for you and the law—and you must do your duty."

"HE, I MAKE OUT NO MORE OF DEN WAD-HASTY."

your duty. I have come to swear out another warrant. Got your blank and all it in."

"Oh, mein Gott!" was Schelsinger's protest. But he ruminated in the catch-all packing box and found the pad of blank warrants. Lidgerwood dictated slowly, in charity for the trembling fingers that held the pen. Knowing his own weakness, he could sympathize with others. When it came to the filling in of Hallock's name Schelsinger stopped, open mouthed.

"Donnerwetter," he gasped, "You don't mean dot, Mr. Lidgerwood; you don't mean dot! Nobody could serve a warrant on Mr. Hallock, Mr. Lidgerwood, I—"

"I'll find some one to serve it," said the complacent curly, and Schelsinger made no further objections.

With the warrant in his pockets, a magistrate's order calling for the arrest and detention of Hankin Hallock on the double charge of train wrecking and murder, Lidgerwood left Schelsinger's, meaning to go back to the Crow's Nest and have McCloskey put the warrant in Judson's hands. But there was a thing to come between, a thing not wholly unlooked for, but none the less destructive of whatever small hope of regeneration the victim of unreasonableness had been cherishing.

When the superintendent reentered to the Colossal corner Mesa arena was still practically deserted, though the group on the hotel porch had increased its numbers. Three doors below, in front of Higgs', a bunch of saddled cow ponies gave notice of a fresh accession to the barroom crowd which was now overflowing upon the steps and the plank sidewalk. Lidgerwood's thoughts shuttled swiftly. He argued that a brave man would neither hurry nor loiter in passing the danger nucleus, and he strove with what determination there was in him to keep even step with the reasoned out resolution.

But once more his weakness tricked him. When the determined stride had brought him fairly opposite Higgs' door a man stepped out of the sidewalk group and calmly pushed him to a stand with the flat of his hand. It was Rufford, and he was saying quite coolly: "Hold up a minute, pardner. I'm going to cut your heart out and feed it to that pup of Schelsinger's that's followin' you. He looks mighty hungry."

stand play for the benefit of the barroom crowd wedging itself in Higgs' doorway. Lidgerwood's lips went dry, and he knew that the haunting terror was slipping its humiliating mask over his face. But before he could say or do any fear prompted thing a diversion came. At the halting moment a small man, red haired and with his cap pulled down over his eyes, had separated himself from the group of loungers on the Colossal porch to make a swift detour through the hotel bar, around the rear of Higgs', and so to the street and the sidewalk in front. As once before and under somewhat less hazardous conditions, he came up behind Rufford, and again the gambler felt the pressure of cold metal against his spine.

"It ain't an 8 wronch this time, Bart," he said gently, and the crowd on Higgs' doorstep roared its appreciation of the joke. Then, "Keep your hands right where they are and slide-stay out of it. Mr. Lidgerwood's way—that's a business." And when the superintendent had gone on: "That's all for the present, Bart. After I get a little more time and ain't so damned busy I'll borrow another pair of clamps from Hephern and take you back to Copah. So long."

By all the laws of Angela procedure Judson should have been promptly shot in the back when he turned and walked swiftly down the avenue to overtake the superintendent. But for once the onlookers were disappointed. Rufford was calmly relighting his cigar, and when he had sufficiently cured the barroom audience for not being game enough to stop the interference he kicked Schelsinger's dog and turned his back upon Higgs' and its company.

CHAPTER XXIII. THE CODE MESSAGE.

IT WAS a bit of common human perverseness that kept Lidgerwood from thanking Judson when the engineer overtook him at the corner of the plaza. Uppermost in his thoughts at the moment was the keen sense of humiliation arising upon the conviction that the plucky little man had surprised his secret and would despise him accordingly; hence his first word to Judson was the word of authority.

"Go back to Schelsinger and have him swear you in as a deputy constable," he directed tersely. "When you are sworn in, come down here and serve this," and he gave Judson the warrant for Hallock's arrest. "Arrest him wherever you can find him and take him over to Copah on the first train that serves. He'll have to clear himself if he can; that's all."

When Judson, with his huge cowboy pistol sagging at his hip, had turned back to do the first part of his errand Lidgerwood went on around the Crow's Nest and presented himself at the door of the Nadia. Happily for his purpose, he found only Mrs. Brewster and Judge Holcomb in possession, the young people having gone to climb one of the bare mesa hills behind the town for an unobstructed view of the Timpanogas.

The superintendent left Judge Holcomb out of the proposal which he urged earnestly upon Mrs. Brewster. Telling her briefly of the threatened strike and his promise of violence and rioting, he tried to show her that the presence of the private car party was a menace alike to its own members and to him. Would she not defer to his judgment and let him send the Nadia back to Copah and to safety while there was yet time?

Mrs. Brewster, the placid, let him say his say without interruption, but when he finished the placidly became active opposition. The president's wife would not listen for a moment to an expedient which did not, could not, include the president himself.

"I merely wished to state the case and to give you a chance to get out and away from the trouble while we could get you out," Lidgerwood said, a little stiffly, then: "It is barely possible that the others may agree with me instead of with you. Will you tell them about it when they come back to the car and send word to my office after you have decided in open council what you wish to do? Only don't let it be very late. A delay of two or three hours may make it impossible for us to get the Nadia over the Desert division."

many witnesses. True, Hallock had few friends in the railroad service, at least among those who professed loyalty to the management, but with explosives lying about everywhere underfoot one could not be too careful of matches and fire.

The superintendent had scarcely closed the door upon his entrance into his own room when it was opened again, with McCloskey's hand on the latch. The trainmaster came to report that a careful search of Callahan's files had not disclosed any message to Leckhard; also he added that Dix, who should have come on duty at 3 o'clock, was still absent.

"What do you make out of that?" queried Lidgerwood.

McCloskey's scowl was grotesquely horrible.

"Bullying or bribery," he said shortly. "They've got Dix hid away uptown somewhere. But there was a message, all right, and with your name signed to it. Callahan saw it on Dix's book this morning before the boy came down. It was in code—your private code. I got Orton a little while ago on the Copah wire and pumped him. He says there was a code message and that Dix sent it. But when I asked him to repeat it back here he said he couldn't—that Mr. Leckhard had taken it with him somewhere down the main line."

Lidgerwood's exclamation was profane. The perversity of things, animate and inanimate, was beginning to wear upon him.

"Go and tell Callahan to keep after Orton until he gets word that Mr. Leckhard has returned. Then have him get Leckhard himself at the other end of the wire and call me," he directed. "Since there is only one man besides myself in Angela who knows the private office code I'd like to know what that message said."

McCloskey nodded. "You mean Hallock?"

"Yes."

The trainmaster was halfway to the door when he turned suddenly to say: "You can fire me if you want to, Mr. Lidgerwood, but I've got to say my say. You're going to let that yellow dog run loose until he bites you."

"No, I am not."

"My gravies, I'd have him safe under lock and key before the shindy begins tonight if it was my job."

"He will be," announced Lidgerwood. "I have sworn out a warrant for his arrest, and Judson has it and is looking for him."

The afternoon sun was pouring for its plunge behind the western barrier range and Lidgerwood had sent Grady up to the cottage on the second mesa to tell Mrs. Dawson that he would not be up for dinner when the door opened to admit Miss Brewster.

"And the way into my parlor is up a winding stair," she quoted blithely and quite as if the air were not thick with threatening possibilities. "So this is where you live, is it? What a dreary, bleak, blank place!"

"It was a moment ago, but it isn't now," he said, and his soberness made the saying something more than a bit of commonplace gallantry. Then he gave her his swing chair as the only comfortable one in the bar room, adding, "I hope you have come to tell me that your mother has changed her mind."

"Indeed, I haven't! What do you take us for, Howard?"

"For an exceedingly rash party of pleasure hunters, if you have decided to stay here through what is likely to happen here tomorrow morning. Besides, you are making it desperately hard for me."

She laughed lightly. "If you can't be afraid for yourself you'll be afraid for other people, won't you? It seems to be one of your necessities."

He let the taunt go unanswered.

"I can't believe that you know what you are doing, any of you, Eleanor. I'll tell you what I told your mother—there will be battle, murder and sudden death let loose here in Angela before tomorrow morning. And it is so utterly unnecessary for any of you to be involved."

men go out. "They" have already threatened to burn the company's

"DO YOU REALLY MEAN THAT THERE IS LIKELY TO BE VIOLENCE?"

buildings if I don't comply with their demands, and I know the temper of the outfit well enough to give it full credit for any violence it promises. Won't you go and persuade the others to consent to run for it, Eleanor? It is simply the height of folly for you to hold the Nadia here. If I could have had ten words with your father this morning before he went out to the mine you would all have been in Copah long ago. Even now if I could get word to him I'm sure he would order the car out at once."

She nodded.

"Perhaps he would; quite likely he would, and he would stay here himself." Then suddenly, "You may send the Nadia back to Copah on one condition—that you go with it."

At first he thought it was a deliberate insult, the crudest indignity she had ever put upon him. Knowing his weakness, she was good natured enough or solicitous enough to try to get him out of harm's way. Then the steadfast look in her eyes made him uncertain.

"If I thought you could say that realizing what it means," he began, and then he looked away.

"Well," she prompted, and the hand slipped from his shoulder.

PAUL GEIDEL, BELL-BODY MURDERER AND HIS VICTIM. Paul Geidel at left, the 17 year old bell-boy who killed Wm. H. Jackson, the aged millionaire broker at the Hotel Iroquois, New York City.

New York City.—Repenting all too late the desperate 17 year old bell-boy Paul Geidel, confessed the slaying of Wm. Henry Jackson, the aged broker in his apartments, the Hotel Iroquois. Through the confession, the murder mystery which agitated New York, have few murders of recent years, was solved and the murderer, trembling and pitifully wretched, is in his cell in the Tombs Prison.

This month there will probably be a brief trial and sentenced by a jury of his peers of murder in the first degree and then the electric chair will cut short the life of a mere lad, who erred so fatally. The most pitiful figure in the case aside from the boy, is the fond, confident, loyal mother and sister. The mother absolutely refuses to believe him capable of such a crime. The case was solved and the murderer located in spite of the baffling mystery and lack of clues in reroared time. A bottle of chloroform was found in the apartments of Mr. Jackson unmistakable finger prints on the bottle were in evidence, the bottle of chloroform was traced to the R. H. Palarly pharmacy, from there to the keepers of a boarding house, Edward Kane, and upon their information that the chloroform was stolen from them, circumstantial evidence pointed out to the 17 year old lad and his confession during a grilling by the Grand Jury, was the outcome.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Aug. 9, 1871.

A Durable Machine.
James Kilmore of the town of Rock, aged 66 years, cut and raked off with one span or horse, twenty-two acres of heavy oats in one day, with a Webber reaper that he has used every season for eleven years, without repairs. It works as well as on the first day he used it.

A Free Ride.
Between Fond du Lac and Oakfield, last night, a bird dog jumped on the cow catcher of the engine, which was running the night express, and rode on the front end of the engine to Oakfield, where he alighted all right and was taken possession of by Engineer Anderson. The engine was running at the rate of twenty-five miles per hour when the dog took passage.

Who Is She?
In the trunk of a girl arrested in Milwaukee a few days since, was found a gift-edged Methodist hymn book, in which was written: Presented to Susan M. Hayley, December 25, 1863. The same trunk also contained a set of jewelry marked S. M. H., which is presumed to belong to the same person. Does anyone know whether such a person as Susan M. Hayley resides in this city?

WILLIE WISE.

The Same Man.
"He is very outspoken in his condemnation of harem skirts for women. Who is he, anyway?"
"I don't know his name, but he is a leading member of the Young Men's Christian association athletic class. Don't you remember, we saw him going down the middle of main street last week in a runner's suit?"

A Gallant Cabman.
An old lady getting into a cab in Grafton street, in Dublin, was heard to say to the driver: "Help me to get in, my good man, for 'm very old."
"Begorra, ma'am," said he, "N, matter what age you are, you don't look it."—Glasgow Herald.

Poor Poe.
"Did you get any recollections of Poe from that old citizen?"
"Nothing worth printing. His only recollection seemed to be that Poe owned him $50."

Frontier Hardships.
"Oh, yes," she says, "we are going to our camp in the Adirondacks during August. We really rough it up there."
"You do?"
"Yes. We leave the under butler at home and we only have six course dinners."—Judge.

His Instinct.
"I see that family dog slinking out of the room. What's the matter with him?"
"Proclama. Presently there will be a tremendous family row on."
"But how did the dog know that?"
"Well, so to speak, his nose is something of a storm sealer."

Have You Noticed?
Mollie—When a man is in love, everything looks different to him.
Cholly—Sure; it's the same way when he knocks his head against a low chandelier.—Yankee Statesman.

RECIPROCITY UP TO CANADIAN VOTERS.

At left, W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, who will tour the provinces in favor of reciprocity. At right Sir Wilfred Laurier, who is actively working for reciprocity with America.

Ottawa, Ont., September 21 will be a momentous day in American history for on that day the people of Canada will decide whether they are to enter into a negotiation with the United States which will bring a closer relationship between the two countries, commercially and politically. The United States, through congress, has already paved the way by sanctioning the Canadian reciprocity. The people of Canada will, on September 21st, elect a new parliament to decide for Canada. This parliament will be chosen primarily with the issue of reciprocity in mind, so that the complexion of the parliament will be a criterion of the view of the people. Premier Laurier and his ministers will take the stump and conduct a platform campaign in the provinces for reciprocity. The Premier himself will confine his time to the central provinces and Quebec while Mr. Fielding, minister of finance, who is expected to draft the reciprocity agreement, will devote his time to the maritime provinces. On the opposition side, Robert L. Horden will take the lead, giving the most of his time to Ontario and Nova Scotia. The parliament, just dissolved, and a working majority for the government of forty, but because of ill-humored tactics, employed by the opposition, Premier Laurier determined to appeal to the electorate and finally dissolved the present parliament.

A conservative victory at the polls means the passing of the Laurier government and the permanent shelving of the reciprocity pact.

Sturgeon Swims Atlantic.

The American sturgeon is a distinct species and is captured on Lakes Michigan and Erie, where it is landlocked, but below the falls of Niagara the same species occurs and passes to the sea. It is recorded, with every probability of truth, that a specimen of this species was captured some years ago in the Fifth of May, having crossed the Atlantic.

Even Then.

Captain Kidd—"What's the trouble? Can't you make the prisoner walk the plank?" Lieutenant—"No, Cap; he absolutely refuses to be a part of the spectacle unless we guarantee him a percentage of the moving-picture receipts."—Puck.

More people, men and women, are suffering from kidney and bladder trouble than ever before, and each year more of them turn for quick relief and permanent benefit to Foley's Kidney Remedy, which has proven itself to be one of the most effective remedies for kidney and bladder ailments that medical science has devised. Robbed of Toxic Qualities.
A process has been discovered by which tea and coffee are robbed of their toxic qualities without interfering with the flavor.

The Philosopher of Folly.
"A chiding dish party," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is a good deal like a mouse party, only you send for the doctor instead of the police."

Its Degree.
Mrs. Howitt—Are you planning an expensive gown?
Mrs. Knowit—Well, it will take at least five courses and his favorite dishes to get it.—Harper's Bazar.

Enclosed Steel Ensilage Carriers For Filling Silos

For several years we have been experimenting with a carrier that would do away with some of the objections of the old style carrier, and also have some of the advantages of the pneumatic elevator. In the Enclosed Steel Carrier we have accomplished this. It is built of galvanized sheet steel and is practically indestructible. It can be operated in nearly a perpendicular position. All the cut feed passes up inside and in consequence cannot be blown out of the carrier. All the buckets are carried on a single heavy chain belt and there is no side strain, and the trouble of one chain stretching more than the other that has always caused so many vexatious delays in the old style carrier is entirely done away with. The carrier buckets all returning on the top of the carrier does away with the necessity of any return supports. This in conjunction with the fact that the carrier can be set nearly perpendicular allows the buckets coming down on the outside to nearly balance the ones going up in the inside so that only the weight of the cut ensilage has to be lifted. This makes the carrier very light running. It is driven direct from the knife head shaft, by means of leather belting. The tighter pulley shaft is controlled by a spring and in the event of the carrier getting caught in any way the belt will slip or the operator can easily and quickly release the tightener and stop the carrier before any damage is done.

The hopper at the base of the carrier is so arranged that all the ensilage drops directly into the carrier doing away entirely with the unsightly pile of ensilage usually found at the base of carriers.

We can furnish an attachment for the top of the carrier to deliver at an angle. This is not necessary however, when the carrier is placed in a direct line with the window of the silo. Can be furnished in any desired length.
